

Skyliner® Technical Bulletin 016: Skyliner® Fabric Painting

White Skyliner® Fabric with Blue Backing:

Any painting of the White Skyliner® fabric will VOID its warranty.

The Skyliner® Fabric System uses a proprietary HPDE (high density polyethylene) scrim which is woven into fabric. The fabric contains plasticizers and fire retardants that may cause the paint to not adhere permanently. Bay Insulation Systems cannot say how certain types of paints may react to the fabric, as there are some paints being sold as good for plastic, but our experience is that one will not get good coverage, and over time, paint flaking is likely.

If the owner/installer decides that the fabric must be painted, we suggest taking a small piece of Skyliner fabric to a paint store for a test; however, as already stated, any painting of the white Skyliner® fabric will void its warranty.

Black Skyliner® Fabric:

The Skyliner® Fabric System uses a proprietary HPDE (high density polyethylene) scrim which is woven into fabric. The fabric contains plasticizers and fire retardants that may cause the paint to not adhere permanently. Bay Insulation Systems cannot say how certain types of paints may react to the fabric, as there are some paints being sold as good for plastic, but our experience is that one will not get good coverage, and over time, paint flaking is likely.

We understand that the Black Skyliner® Fabric System facing can become scratched &/or scuffed during installation. As a result, if needed, Bay Insulation Systems recommends a touch-up application by spraying a VERY LIGHT COATING COVERING JUST THE AREAS AFFECTED with Rust-Oleum Painters Touch 2X Flat Black. Our experience is that this will provide sufficient coverage of the scratches &/or scuff marks to give the appearance needed.

Please Note: Any painting of the black Skyliner fabric beyond the very light coating of just the affected areas with Rust-Oleum Painters Touch 2X Flat Black, or any other paint, will void its warranty.
